Library Notes.

"All the known world, excepting only savage nations, is governed by books."—VOLTAIRE.

The list of books in the Library dealing with Engineering, Building Construction, Shipbuilding, etc., which recently appeared in instalments in the local press, is shortly to be reprinted in a handy form. Copies of the list will be circulated among the various workshops, factories, and technical classes in the district.

A list of works on the Fine Arts in the Library will be issued later in the year.

It is pleasing to record that the books in embossed type, added about two months ago by the Committee for the use of the blind residents, have been much used and appreciated. Some of the works have already circulated seven and eight times.

Catalogues of the collection, printed in Braille and Moon type, may be had free on application at the Library.

A commencement with the first of the three Branch Libraries is to be made shortly. A general ground plan has been decided upon by the Committee, and Architects have been invited to send in Plans for elevations and details. The Kayll Road site, presented by Alderman Burns, Chairman of the Committee, being the only one secured at present, building operations will be commenced there.

Museum and Art Gallery Notes.

The Art Gallery is now open free every week-day, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. This new departure has had the natural result of increasing the number of visitors, and it is hoped that the works of art, many of which are by famous local artists, will thus become better known and more widely appreciated by all Wearsiders.

An interesting and valuable small water-colour picture, by Sunderland's famous artist, Clarkson Stanfield, entitled—"Rock Castle," has recently been received from Mrs. Stanfield, widow of the late Mr. Field Stanfield, who bequeathed the work.

Since our last issue, a number of acquisitions to the Museum has been recorded. One of the most interesting is a collection of some thousands of Butterflies and Moths collected during a residence of 28 years in Japan and presented by the Rev. Walter Andrews, of Middleton St. George Rectory, Co. Durham.

A fine Model Locomotive Engine, made and bequeathed by the late Mr. Thomas Powell, a one-armed man, who was a native of Sunderland, is on view in the Model Room.

A number of Postal Rarities, including some franked letters and first issues of British penny stamps, has been presented by Mr. John Moore, of Beckenham, Kent, who has generously enriched our collections on many previous occasions.

The Committee has made a valuable addition in the shape of a fine Lioness and Cubs, which, side by side with the well-known Lion, is a great attraction to visitors.

Progress is being made in the overhauling of the birds and bird-cases. In a few instances, the nest, eggs, and natural surroundings have been introduced where the specimens have adapted themselves to such a display ; and the result is some pleasing family groups.

Large numbers of the bright-coloured and variously shaped sea-shells in the centre cases have been cleaned and shown to more advantage ; and it is hoped that not many weeks will elapse before all the charming trophies of the seashore are cleaned and re-arranged.

The introduction of new descriptive labels and maps, localising at once the habitat of the animal or bird, is leading visitors to more easily gain knowledge concerning the natural objects of the collections.

Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Notes.

A selection of Guides and Holiday Books which are being exhibited in the Library, is printed in this issue of the Circular.

The list of Technical Works in the Library, which was recently published in the local press, is being brought up to date and reprinted in pamphlet form.

It will be issued about 1st September, and copies will be circulated free at the Library, Technical College, and various workshops and factories in Sunderland.

It is hoped that this list will be of assistance to Mechanics, Students, and others interested in technical subjects.

The privilege of allowing non-resident Council School Teachers "A Non-Fiction Ticket" for the Library, has been extended to Students at the Technical College who do not reside within the Borough, with a view to assisting them in their studies.

Students desirous of partaking of this privilege, must secure the necessary Application Form from the Principal of the College.

The Pictures in the Art Gallery have recently been arranged in their respective Schools: British Oil Colour Paintings, British Water Colour Paintings, Foreign Oil Colour Paintings, etc., in accordance with the arrangement in the new "Catalogue of the Art Gallery Permanent Collection." The initial letters preceding the number on each label, denote the School to which the Picture belongs.

Arrangements are being made for holding an Exhibition in the Autumn of Water Colour Paintings. The collection, which illustrates with valuable examples the history of Water Colour Painting in England, is being secured on loan from the Albert and Edward Museum, South Kensington. It will contain specimens by almost all of England's greatest Water Colour Artists, including Sunderland's world famous painter, Clarkson Stanfield.

It is hoped to secure the Collection for three months, and it will be entirely free to the public.

Further information will be announced later.

Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Notes.

The sites for the three Branch Libraries have now been secured, and at the November meeting of the Town Council the special thanks of the Council were accorded to the donors :—

Mr. Alderman Burns, J.P. (Chairman of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee), for the Kayll Road site;

Mr. J. G. Addison, J.P., for the Church Street North site;

Messrs. T. W. and Arthur Backhouse, for the Vilette Road site.

It is confidently expected that the coming year will see a commencement made to transfer Mr. Carnegie's gift of £10,000 into bricks and mortar.

The Reference Library has been enriched by a set of Giles' "Complete Works of Bede" in the original Latin, 12 volumes. Presented by the Rev. Thomas Randell, D.D., M.A., B.C.L., Member of the Committee.

A valuable collection of Natural History specimens and Antiquities, collected by the late Mr. Edward Backhouse, has recently been presented to the town.

The Collection consists of some 20,000 specimens. There are no less than 6,000 butterflies from various parts of the world, 4,000 finely preserved English and Foreign shells, including many rare varieties. There are also 1,500 geological specimens, some of which have passed through the hands of Canon Greenwell, who is a well-known authority. In addition to 600 flint implements, there are numerous botanical and ethnological specimens and objects of antiquarian interest.

The Collection, which is in beautiful condition, and of great educational value, is one which any town might be proud to own.

As the Museum is already crowded, the Committee will have to face the difficult question of storage.

Among other donations may be mentioned :—

A large and interesting collection of English Tokens of the 18th century. Presented by Mrs. S. Austin, Eltham, Kent.

An Autograph Letter of Andrew White, first Mayor of Sunderland, dated 1836. Presented by Councillor J. Summers.

The Museum has hitherto been closed at 7 p.m., but as it is thought that many business persons have not an opportunity of visiting before that hour, it has been decided, as an experiment, to keep it open until 9 p.m. during December of this year, and January and February of next.

Should the attendance prove satisfactory, the hours will be permanently extended to 9 p.m., which is also the time for closing the Library.

The Loan Collection of English Water Colour Paintings, referred to in the last issue of The Library Circular, has been on exhibition in the Art Gallery since the middle of October.

As the Collection illustrates the history of Water Colour Painting—an art peculiarly English—it has caused much interest, and already over 18,000 persons have viewed it.

A special 30 page Catalogue, with biographical notes, is on sale for the sum of 1d.

The Exhibition will close on the 12th January, 1907. The Gallery is open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk during Winter, and to 7 p.m. during Summer. No charge is made for admission.

The following Artists are represented in the Collection:—

In the course of a few months, there will be placed in the centre of the Art Gallery a bronzed plaster cast of Lord Leighton's famous piece of sculpture "Athlete and Python."

The Board of Education has kindly agreed to give financial assistance in procuring a copy of this bronze.

The cast will be taken direct from the original, which is in the National Gallery of British Art. The execution of the work has been placed in the hands of Signor Enrico Cantoni. It is understood that the copy will be the first to be secured by a provincial Museum.

OUR LOCAL COALFIELDS.

An addition has recently been made to the Reference Department, which should be of the highest importance to all local Mining Engineers, Colliery Officials, Waterworks Engineers, and Geologists. This is a large portfolio "Map and Plotted Vertical Sections of Strata of the Northumberland and Durham Coalfield." The Borings and Sinkings show all the coal-seams at present worked. There are details of the strata met with in no less than 306 pits, comprising 350 sections, all drawn to scale and arranged in order from east to west and from north to south, in lines plotted on the map for reference. By the help of these sections future prospecting should be made easy, as it would be possible in most cases to judge at what spot to sink a new pit in order to work certain seams, by a comparison of the sections of the nearest pits. Our townsfolk will note with interest that the Sunderland district possesses some of the deepest borings, namely, the Silksworth pit which is sunk to a depth of 2,242 feet. Depths of other local pits are Monkwearmouth, 1,899 feet; Ryhope, 1,975 feet; and Whitburn, 1,584 feet.

The work of obtaining measurements and drawing the map and sections has evidently been a labour of love to the author, Mr. J. Kirsopp, Junr., F.G.S., of the Mining Institute, Newcastle-upon-Tyne, who has dedicated it to Professor Lebour, of the Armstrong College. Mr. Kirsopp has made a signal contribution to the mining records of the North Country Coalfield, which will prove useful and interesting not only to the professional men, but also to all others who have to do with the great Coal Industry which supports the majority of the local population.

MAGNA CARTA.

A facsimile of the Magna Carta, sealed by King John in 1215 A.D., now preserved in the British Museum, has been framed and placed on view immediately within the Library. This will doubtless interest most visitors, especially teachers and pupils. The document, as every schoolboy knows, is the foundation of the English Constitution.

“THE SHIPPING GAZETTE.”

A copy of The Shipping Gazette is now shown in the Ladies' Reading Room at the Library. This is in addition to the copy shown in the Reading Rooms at present located at the corner of Athenæum Street and Frederick Street.

NORTHERN LIBRARIANS' MEETINGS.

A Meeting of the Northern Counties Library Association, attended by about 50 members, under the presidency of Mr. Baker Hudson, Librarian and Curator, Middlesbrough, was held in Sunderland, on Wednesday, 27th March.

The Association, which has not met in Sunderland for six years, was welcomed by His Worship the Mayor (Councillor S. M. Swan), Ald. Wm. Burns, J.P., Chairman, and Councillor J. Hindmarch, Vice-Chairman of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee.

The following papers were read and discussed :—

- (a) “The ‘Brown’ or ‘Dewey’ Classification—which?”
by Mr. Baker Hudson.

- (b) "Public Libraries in the Educational System," by Mr. C. F. Baker, D.Ph., B.Sc., Acting Principal, Sunderland Technical College (Member of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee.)
- (c) "Public Libraries and the Nett Book Question," by Mr. T. W. Hand, F.R.Hist.S., City Librarian, Leeds. In the discussion on the last paper, Messrs. Jas. Patterson and B. R. Hill supported the action of the publishers.

The members visited the Hendon Paper Works by kind invitation of the Company, and were also entertained to Luncheon by Ald. Burns, and to Tea by the Mayor.

On Easter Tuesday evening the Northumberland and Durham Association of Assistant Librarians (affiliated with the above Association) made their annual visit.

The Papers read and discussed were :—

"Notes on English, American, & Colonial Library Law," by Mr. R. Daniels, South Shields Public Library.

"The Public Library and the Drama," by Mr. A. H. Yates, Sunderland Public Library.

The members were afterwards entertained by the Librarian, Hon. President of the Association.

MUSEUM HOURS.

The Committee's three months' experiment of extending the hour of closing the Museum, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., having proved a success and been much appreciated by evening visitors, it has been decided to make the arrangement a permanent one. The hours in future will therefore be the same as those of the Library—10 a.m. to 9 p.m., daily.

The hours for the Art Gallery remain as hitherto—10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and in Winter, 10 a.m. till dusk.

DONATION BY THE EARL OF DURHAM.

The Museum has just been enriched by an interesting Entomological Collection presented to the town by the Earl of Durham.

The specimens are principally from the American Continent, and originally belonged to the first Earl of Durham, having come into his possession during the time he was Governor-General of Canada.

The collection comprises nearly 3,000 specimens, chiefly butterflies, moths, and beetles, and also a number of stick insects, leaf insects, locusts, cicadas, dragon-flies, and spiders. Some of the spiders are of the Tarantula class and measure six inches across. The donation is contained in six folding cases and shown in a table frame, $17\frac{1}{2}$ feet long by 2 feet wide. For a time the collection will be exhibited apart in the Museum.

LOANS FROM SOUTH KENSINGTON.

The contents of the four South Kensington Museum cases in our Ethnological Department has recently been changed. The cases now contain :

- (a) Electrotypes of the Hildersheim Treasure of Roman Silver.
- (b) Bookbindings and Leather Work.
- (c) Wood-Carvings of Various Periods and Countries.
- (d) British Pottery.

An Exhibition of Autotypes of a selection of the most famous British and Dutch Paintings in the National Gallery was opened in our Gallery on March 25th.

The Collection comprises over 100 specimens, 56 of the British School and 52 of the Dutch School.

The pictures are lent by the Board of Education for about three months. During the first month 16,956 persons have visited the Gallery, an average of 652 per day.

SCULPTURE FOR THE ART GALLERY.

We are able to illustrate the bronzed cast of Lord Leighton's famous piece of sculpture "Athlete Struggling with a Python," which has just been placed in the Art Gallery.

The cast—of what is acknowledged to be one of the finest pieces of English sculpture—has been made direct from the original bronze, which is in the National Gallery of British Art, London, better known as the Tate Gallery. The work has been carried out to the order of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee, by Signor Cantoni, of Chelsea, and in response to an application, assistance to defray half the cost has been given by the Board of Education.

Lord Leighton, the author of the original work, and one of England's famous painters and sculptors, was the son of a medical practitioner, and was born in Scarborough in 1830. At the age of 14, having decided to become an artist, his father sought the advice of Hiram Powers, the American sculptor. Powers, when asked, "Shall I make him an artist?" exclaimed, "Sir, you have no choice in the matter, he is one already, and he may become as eminent as he pleases." Success as a painter came to him almost from the first. In 1855 his "Cimabue's 'Madonna' carried in procession through Florence," made a profound impression, and moved Ruskin to speak of it in his Royal Academy Notes of that year, as "a very important and very beautiful picture." Queen Victoria purchased it for £600, and it now hangs in Buckingham Palace.

Lord Leighton was 47 years of age and already of wide renown as a painter, having produced about a hundred more or less important works, when in 1877 he burst upon the world as a sculptor, and exhibited at the Royal Academy the subject of our illustration : "Athlete Struggling with a Python," sometimes called "An Athlete Strangling a Python," a work upon which he expended the greater part of three years' labour. The venture was the most striking piece of sculpture of the year, and even to-day is acknowledged to be one of the finest examples of English work. It was purchased for the Nation under the Chantrey Bequest for the sum of £2,000, and it is interesting to note that this was the first purchase made by the trustees of the Chantrey Fund. The following year the figure was exhibited in Paris. Here it was much admired, and no work did more to win the author the appreciation of French and German artists. In the year 1878 Leighton was elected to the Presidency of the Royal Academy, and subsequently knighted. In 1886 he produced "The Sluggard," as a contrast to his "Struggling Athlete." This also is in the Tate Gallery.

The "Athlete" was repeated in marble by the artist's own hand, for the Danish Museum at Copenhagen in 1891, and it was shown at the Royal Academy in the same year.

In January, 1896, a peerage was bestowed upon the artist and sculptor, but on the 25th of the same month, one day after its bestowal, Lord Leighton of Stretton had passed away ; his peerage, which existed but one day, being unique. He was buried with much state in St. Paul's Cathedral.

In all his labours Lord Leighton was thorough, "punctual to a fault," as his friends said, and conscientious. The following words of one of his memorable discourses were characteristic of the man and his work : "Believe me, whatever of dignity, whatever of strength, we have in us, will dignify and will make strong the labours of our hands ; whatever littleness degrades our spirit will lessen them and drag them down. Whatever noble fire is in our hearts will burn also in our work, whatever purity is ours will also chasten and exalt it ; for as we are, so our work is, and what we sow in our lives, that beyond a doubt, we shall reap for good or for ill in the strengthening or defacing of whatever gifts have fallen to our lot."

RARE BINDINGS AND SPECIMENS OF TYPOGRAPHY.

There is at present on temporary view in the Museum what is perhaps the best collection of Book Bindings ever publicly exhibited in the town.

The Collection is really a dual one, for it consists of a number of specimens lent by the Board of Education, and a number shown quite apart, of more modern bindings (together with specimens of typography) lent by Mr. Herbert Squance, a member of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee.

THE SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM COLLECTION.

The South Kensington specimens occupy a large square glass case in the centre room of the upper floor of the building. They represent English, Irish, Scotch, French, Dutch, German, Italian, etc., bindings, of the 15th, 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries.

English and German "blind tooling" is represented by several exquisite specimens. There is a pleasing example of French 16th century work in Grolier style, also specimens of Hague's imitations of French 16th century work.

Among the Italian bindings of the 15th, 16th, and 17th centuries, is a Vellum Manuscript (17th century) in a beautifully tooled cover with seals attached, also a Backgammon Board of red morocco in the form of a book cover, bearing the Medici arms.

Florentine binding is represented by a Portfolio of Strap-work with Arabesque tooling in gold, dated 1588.

The collection contains an exquisitely embossed and stamped Scroll Case of the 16th century.

THE HERBERT SQUANCE COLLECTION.

This portion of the Exhibition is placed at the east end of the Museum Gallery.

The volumes are selected to show—within the limits of the library of a man of moderate means—something of the history and progress of typography; together with specimens illustrating old bindings, and good but not elaborate work of the best binders of the last century.

The excellent facsimiles issued by the Cambridge University Library give some indication of the types used by the first English printers—William Caxton and Wynkyn de Worde. It will be easily seen that these types were founded on the texts of the Monastic scribes, and some of the modifications of this Gothic type are illustrated by the Vulgates printed at Basle in 1482, and at Paris in 1501. The Basle Vulgate shows the early stage of printing where the printer left the Capitals and initial letters to be filled in by the hand of the scribe or illuminator. In the Paris Vulgate the initial letters only of the various books are illuminated, and the Capitals of the Chapters are printed from wood blocks.

The series of English Black Letter Bibles, beginning with the Great Bible of 1540 and ending with the first edition of the Authorised Version, are characteristic specimens of English Black Letter. The master printers of that age were accomplished craftsmen and artists. They were, generally speaking, men of good family and substance. Whitechurch, the printer of the Great Bible, was a Citizen and Grocer of London. John Daye was of a good Suffolk family with a grant of arms; and Richard Jugge was educated at Eton and Cambridge. After the Great Black Letter printers of the 16th century, the art declined, and a poor crabbed Roman letter was in general use. The first folio of Chaucer, printed in 1532, is a beautiful specimen of typography, but the first folio Shakespeare, printed in 1623, is printed in an ill-formed crowded type.

The presses of John Baskerville and Charles Whittingham, several specimens from which are shown, were noted for the beauty of their type and the excellence of their workmanship. The combination of William Pickering as publisher and Charles Whittingham as printer, produced a series of volumes of unrivalled excellence, and it was not until William Morris set up his Kelmscott Press that the supremacy of Baskerville and Whittingham was seriously challenged.

The Nuremberg À Kempis of 1494, the rare Elzevir edition of the "Imitatio," and copies of the "Imitatio" from the Plantin and Barbou presses, are interesting and beautiful specimens of the work of celebrated foreign printers.

Various bindings are shown which may be taken as fairly representing sound workmanship and good taste without the elaboration of ornament, which is only within the reach of the wealthy book collector. Certain old bindings are interesting as specimens of their days, and the volumes in the original bindings are much more valuable in that state than in modern bindings, however elaborate.

Modern methods of tanning and aniline dyes have told seriously upon the quality of leather, and the beautiful morocco of the 17th, 18th, and early 19th centuries, which retains its grain and its colour, softened only and mellowed with age, is the envy of modern binders.

Specimens are shown of the craftsmanship of Francis Bedford, Charles Lewis, Rivière, Hayday, Hammond, Mansell, and Zaehnsdorf, together with one volume bound by Roger Payne, the greatest binder England has produced. There are also specimens of half bound volumes and of silk covers with richly gilded backs, introduced by Messrs. Macmillan & Co., in their Editions-de-Luxe.

We rejoice in the multitude of good cheap books to-day, but there is danger of forgetting that the really good book is worthy of the best that can be given,—handmade paper, black ink, clear, beautiful type, and sound binding in sound leather, for “a good book is the precious life blood of a master spirit embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life.”

The two collections of bindings, together with that of typography, number over 150 specimens.

The Exhibition is being much appreciated, and it is hoped will prove of value to collectors and binders alike, and so justify the exhibition of these rare and valuable examples of the printer's and binder's art.

Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Notes.

READING LISTS.

With a view to assisting those interested in the University Extension movement, Reading Lists showing the resources of the Library on the subjects of the local lectures on "Victorian Poets and Novelists" have been compiled, and are being distributed gratis to readers making application. The Lists include the following writers: Alfred Tennyson, Robert Browning, Matthew Arnold, George Eliot, George Meredith, and Robert Louis Stevenson. A List of books in the Library on the theory and practice of Education will be ready shortly, and should prove useful to those who are following the local lectures on "The Art of Teaching."

It is hoped to find space in the next issue of the Library Circular for a List of the Library's resources in Music.

BRANCH LIBRARIES.

It is expected that a commencement will be made with the building of the Branch Libraries at an early date, probably before Christmas. The first of the three to be erected will be in Vilette Road, Hendon, the arrangements for this site having been concluded first.

VISITS TO THE MUSEUM AND ART GALLERY.

We are glad to be able to record that during the last quarter there has been an increased number of visits of scholars with their teachers to study or to draw the exhibits, especially the newly-labelled Natural History Collections. The schools represented include the following:—The Blind School, Council Schools, Industrial School, School of Art, The Bede Collegiate School, and a Private School, all in Sunderland, and one specially arranged visit from a West Hartlepool Council School. It is hoped that the increased facilities for instruction now afforded by the re-described Birds and Mammals will induce a corresponding increase in the visits of school classes. Every facility is afforded to teachers and others conducting classes or adult parties.

COLLECTION ILLUSTRATING THE GEOLOGY OF SUNDERLAND.

A Collection of Fossils, Mineral and Rock Specimens from the neighbourhood of Sunderland, with geological maps and photographs, is at present exhibited in the cases at the east end of the Museum gallery. One of the most interesting specimens is a Fossil Fish (Platysomus parvus) found in the Magnesian Limestone at Pallion, which is in a fine state of preservation, its scales still bearing the shining enamelled appearance so characteristic of Fishes living in the Permian and earlier ages. This specimen has been described and figured by M. Agassiz in his celebrated work, "Poisson Fossiles," vol. 2, p. 170, pl. 18, f. 3; and by Winch in "Geological Transactions," 1st series, vol 4, pl. 2; it has also been described by Dr. Clanny in the "Annals of Philosophy," vol. 6, p. 115.

Amongst other specimens, may be mentioned two species of Fossil Shells from Hartley's quarry, formerly worked between Deptford and Pallion, which were named Spirifer Clannyana, after Dr. William Reid Clanny, of Safety Lamp fame; and Leda Vinti, after Mr. Robert Vint, Treasurer of the Sunderland Natural History and Antiquarian Society, when it was formed in 1836.

BRITISH BIRDS' NESTS AND EGGS.

The formation of a Series of Nests and Eggs of British Birds has recently been commenced. This collection, owing to the interest of Mr. B. B. Mewburn, forms a popular exhibit, the following nests being on view:—Mistle-Thrush, Song-Thrush, Redstart, Wren, Dipper, Yellow Bunting, Corn-Bunting, Willow-Wren, Garden-Warbler, Reed-Warbler, Sedge-Warbler, Blackcap, Chaffinch, Greenfinch, Redpoll, Lesser Redpoll, Spotted Flycatcher, Pied Wagtail, Long-Tailed Tit, Golden-Crested Wren, Blackbird, Stonechat, Nightingale, Crested Tit, Goldfinch, Hedge-Sparrow, Whitethroat, Meadow-Pipit, Tree-Pipit, Bullfinch, and Swallow.

MUSEUM AND ART GALLERY ADDITIONS.

A set of 15 facsimiles of world-famed and historical diamonds has recently been obtained, and will shortly be placed on exhibition in the Mineral Cases of the Museum Gallery. Amongst these models the "Koh-i-Noor" of the British Regalia will attract special attention.

The Collection of Sunderland Pottery has been enriched by the addition of a large Jug, with a view of the Wear Bridge printed on its side. It is a somewhat rare example.

“Rain at Sundown, Dartmoor,” a Turner-esque water-colour painting by Frank Wasley, an artist of rising repute, has been placed in the Art Gallery.

The head of a Spanish Bull, once famous in the Bilbao Bull-Ring, through having killed several men and twenty-four horses in three days, has been presented by Mrs. M. A. Hall, of Sunderland. It is on view on the wall at the east end of the Museum Gallery.

THE EMBROIDERIES' EXHIBITION.

The Loan Collection of Embroideries from the National Collection at the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, has been much appreciated during the four months it has been in Sunderland, over 57,000 persons having passed through the Gallery during this period.

In response to a special request, the South Kensington authorities have agreed to extend the loan to the 10th December.

J. A. CHARLTON DEAS, LIBRARIAN AND DIRECTOR.

Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Notes.

Since the last issue of this "Circular," two additional lists of books in the Library, dealing with the subjects of the local lectures of the University Extension Society, have been issued. These are "Education;" and "Light and Sight." The lectures on the latter subject commence on the 27th of January, and the list contains the works recommended by the lecturer, together with thirty-five others in the Library dealing with the subject. In this connection a special collection of crystals has been arranged at the east end of the Museum Gallery.

The recent donations to the Library include a valuable collection of Chap-books relating principally to Northumberland and Durham. In addition to their literary interest they contain many quaint woodcuts. There are 230 of these Chap-books bound in six volumes. This donation, by Mr. John Moore, of Beckenham, Kent, has just been followed by a volume, from the same donor, entitled, "Specimens of early wood engraving," (Newcastle-upon-Tyne, 1862), containing 817 cuts. These donations, as the Book List shows, are placed in the Reference Library.

A commencement has at last been made with the building of the first of the Branch Libraries, namely, the Hendon Branch, Villette Road. Books representing all sections of literature are being carefully selected and purchased for the stocking of this Branch, which will probably be opened with about 7,000 volumes.

EXHIBITION OF ENGRAVINGS.

An exhibition of reproductions of engravings illustrating the development and growth of the art of engraving in wood and in metal, was opened in the Art Gallery on December 30th, 1907.

The examples are contained in 95 frames, and are classified in chronological order upon the screens, so as to form a collection instructive to the public in general, and of educational value to art students in particular. The collection includes specimens of each of the following varieties of engraving, namely, Woodcut, Line-Engraving, Etching, Mezzotint, and Stipple, covering the period from the 15th century to the early years of the 19th century. The examples forming the exhibition have been principally compiled from the resources of the various departments of the institution.

Many of the famous masters of the art of engraving are represented. On the first screen the Woodcut Engravings are displayed ; amongst these the Chillingham Bull, by Thos. Bewick, the famous engraver, of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, attracts attention. The other side of this screen and the remaining three screens are devoted to engravings on metal. The earliest of the great German masters Schongauer, is represented by several plates. The greatest artist who ever practised engraving, Albrecht Dürer, is represented by Etchings as well as several Line-Engravings. The history of Line-Engraving in England is traced in engravings from the hands of William Faithorne, who worked during the reign of Charles II., and was the earliest English master of the art, and also in works by the 18th century masters, Sir Robert Strange, William Woollett, and William Sharp.

On the remaining screens are exhibited examples illustrating the growth of Line-Engraving on the Continent during the 17th and 18th centuries, under the influence of Rubens, and, later, in the school patronised by Louis XIV.

The most popular branches of engraving in England during the 17th and 18th centuries, displacing the Line-Engraving in the public estimation, namely, Mezzotint, and Stipple, may be studied in several typical examples. A magnifying glass is hung conveniently near the Stipple engravings, in order that they may be examined in detail.

A list of books in the library dealing with the art and history of Engraving, is exhibited on the first of the screens.

Explanatory labels clearly typewritten, placed on the screens at the head of each section, make clear the development of the whole art. The exhibition will be continued until near the end of March.

The public are reminded that admission is free, the hours being 10 a.m. till dusk during winter.

THE JACK CRAWFORD MEDAL.

In this issue of the "Circular" we illustrate the Jack Crawford medal—a popular exhibit in the Sunderland Museum—which commemorates a brave deed of which the town is justly proud.

It may be of interest to recall the leading points in the story of the Sunderland sailor lad, whose act of heroism ranks highly in the history of naval daring. Jack Crawford was born on or about the 22nd of March, 1775, at the east end of the town, a few doors down on the left hand side of Thornhill's Bank, now called the Pottery Bank. Jack's boyhood days were marked by a fondness for the sea, and with a determination to enter upon a seafaring life, he served his apprenticeship in the Peggy, of South Shields. About 1796, some trifling family quarrel caused Jack to leave Sunderland and join the navy. Being drafted on board of the Venerable, our hero was soon to take part in a terrible action, which resulted in the hard-earned victory gained by the English fleet over the Dutch off Camperdown, on the 11th of October, 1797. The fleets were commanded, on the English side by Admiral Duncan in the Venerable, and on the Dutch side by the famous De Winter in the Vryheid. During the heat of conflict between the ships of the two commanders-in-chief, the incident occurred which is dwelt upon with just pride by chroniclers of the engagement, and which called forth the most enthusiastic popular applause. The Venerable was hard pressed in the unequal combat, for in addition to the Vryheid, three others of the enemy's vessels concentrated their energies for her destruction, and the fiercest cannonade came from all sides. Several times had the British colours been shot away, and as often had they been replaced. At last, part of the mast which bore them came crashing down on deck with the Admiral's flag still clinging to the broken spar. The colours could no longer be run up in the usual way, since the necessary part of the mast had been shot.

away. It was then that Jack Crawford showed his dauntless courage and disregard of death ; for with a marling-spike (or a pistol, as another record has it) in his hand to serve as a hammer, Jack was seen to run aloft, and clinging to the splintered timber, he nailed the Venerable's flag to the topgallant mast-head, while the enemy's marksmen tried in vain to prevent him, and then nimbly slid down a rope and jumped on deck. In doing this, a splinter of wood passed through his cheek into his mouth. Nevertheless, amid the cheers of his comrades and the approbation of his commander, he turned and said, "Never mind, that's nowt." As to whether Admiral Duncan gave the order, or Jack Crawford performed the act of heroism of his own accord, the various accounts differ ; but in either case, enough of glory remains to stamp the act as one of the boldest which a man could dare to do.

In a copy of "The Edinburgh Advertiser," dated Dec. 22nd to 26th, 1797, (which is on view in one of the glass cases in the Lending Library), the following paragraph appears in an account of the National Demonstration in London to commemorate the victory :—

"The sailor who rode in the carriage with the colours taken from the Dutch, was him who in the action of the 11th October, so gallantly nailed Admiral Duncan's flag to the top-gallant-mast head."

As a matter of fact this sailor was not Jack, but one chosen to take his place, as he could not be found when the day arrived. The crowd, under a wrong impression, showered money into the carriage all along the route.

No sooner did Crawford's fellow-townsmen become aware of his distinguished action for his country's honour, than a movement was inaugurated to show appreciation of his bravery, which they expressed in the form of a silver medal, presented to him in the month of March, 1798.

The medal, not unlike the hero it commemorates, has had a somewhat eventful career. It was pledged by Jack with a Mrs. Dunn, of Low Street, and there it remained for twenty-nine years. After his death, which occurred on the 9th or 10th of November, 1831, it passed to the possession, for a few months, of Mr. John Crawford, Jack's eldest son. It was now claimed by Jack Crawford's widow, and it appears she undertook that it should revert to her son John at her decease. Prior to her death, however, Mrs. Crawford sold it to a local attorney, Mr. Robert Burdon Cay, for the sum of £5; later it became the possession of Mr. James Moore, and after that gentlemen's decease it became the property of the Earl of Camperdown, grandson of the gallant Admiral Duncan who commanded the English fleet in the action. Finally, on the 12th of July, 1888, the medal was presented by the Earl of Camperdown to the Sunderland Museum, where it constitutes an exhibit of unique interest. It is interesting to note that Jack Crawford wore this medal at the burial of Nelson, and that he had the honour of being presented to King George III., after which event a pension of £30 a year was conferred upon him.

It may be stated that when the performances at the once famous resort, Vauxhall Gardens, London, were a source of great attraction, there was a representation of the Battle of Camperdown, and Jack was offered £100 per week to exhibit in the act of nailing the colours to the mast; but, although poor at the time, he sent the management the following reply to their invitation:—"No, I will never disgrace the real act of a sailor to act like a play fool."

The remains of the Hero of Camperdown were interred in Sunderland Churchyard in November, 1831, the spot being left unmarked until the 6th of August, 1888, when a tombstone was placed on the grave. It is a remarkable fact that Crawford was the second victim of the first visitation of cholera to this country, which arrived in Sunderland from Riga, 26th October, 1831. His birth-place in Pottery Bank is indicated by a tablet; and his memory is further perpetuated by the monument which was erected in the Mowbray Park by public subscription in 1890.

On the obverse of the medal is engraved :—The arms of Sunderland ; a Norman shield vert, with quadrant ; crest, a terrestrial globe ; motto, “ Orbis est Dei,” (The earth is the Lord’s) ; supporters, dexter—a sailor with red ensign and cannon ; supporters, sinister—a sailor with Union Jack and cannon ; inscription, “ The town of Sunderland to John Crawford for gallant services on Octr. 11th, 1797 ;” border, dexter—spray of laurel ; border, sinister—spray of oak.

On the reverse :—A sea-fight ; wooden line-o’-battle-ships in action ; border, inscription, above, “ Duncan and glory,”—below, “ British Valour ;” sprays of laurel and oak similar to obverse.

Measurements : Diameter, $3\frac{7}{8}$ inches ; thickness, $\frac{3}{8}$ of an inch ; Weight, $7\frac{3}{4}$ ounces in troy weight, (= $8\frac{1}{2}$ ounces avoirdupois) ; marks,—maker’s name (IL), lion, king’s head, but without the name of the town where hall-marked.

The quality of the engraving is considered workmanlike, but not remarkable for style.

“There are three pleasures in life, pure and lasting, and all derived from inanimate things—pictures, books, and the face of nature.”—HAZLITT.

BRANCH LIBRARIES.

Rapid progress is being made with the Branch Library at Hendon, and in our next issue we hope to give more definite information regarding the date when it will be ready for opening. It will interest our readers to learn that the system of issuing books is to be that known as “open-access.” Hitherto, readers at the Central Library have had to choose their reading from catalogues without access to the books; but in the Branch Libraries every ticket-holder will be permitted to pass through a turn-stile to the shelves, and by means of a personal examination of the books will be able the better to select in accordance with specific requirements or individual tastes. This system, of course, necessitates strict classification of the books upon the shelves. For example, a student of engineering will find all the books bearing upon that subject standing together, and subdivided to indicate whether the subject be mechanical, mining, railroad, canal, river, and harbour, or sanitary engineering, and similarly, the naval architect, the musician, the lover of belles-lettres, the chemist, the electrician, and so on.

The Sunderland Public Libraries will be the first in the north of England to adopt in its entirety this important and up-to-date method of bringing the readers into direct touch with the books upon the shelves. On the opening of the three Branches the Central Lending Library will be re-organised on the same lines.

We look to the opening of the first Branch at Hendon to relieve the increasingly high pressure at the Central Department. From the commencement of our library year, on November 1st last, up to the time of going to press, the Central Library issues show an increase of 9,000 volumes over the corresponding period of last year. Solid reading continues to represent over 50 per cent. of the total issue.

MODELS AND DIAGRAMS FOR THE MUSEUM.

An important addition has recently been made to the Museum in the form of a series of specimens of fishes, models, and diagrams illustrating natural history, which have been purchased with the aid of a grant from the Board of Education. These include a model of a Great Auk's egg, the remarkable extinct bird which once lived on the western shores of the British Islands, but whose remains are now so rare that a single egg is worth £100, and one has even been sold for £315.

There is also a cast of the oldest known fossil bird, the Archæopteryx, which possessed features linking birds to reptiles. The most important models, however, are those which illustrate the early life of the human embryo, in the successive stages resembling the lower animals, the fish, and the chick. The special interest of these models lies in the comparison with those of the dog, lancelet, and starfish, in the same series.

The fish and amphibian specimens are eight in number, and include the Climbing Perch, as well as the Bony Pike, and Mexican Axolotl.

The diagrams are attempts to represent the appearance of the landscape of our country in past geological ages, when large areas of what is now dry land were submerged under the sea, or were covered by inland lakes. There are two views showing the lagoons and swamps in which the plants which form our coal-seams were laid down, and other plates representing the Chalk age, and the Ice age.

The series of diagrams also includes four plates illustrating the following types of races of mankind :—Negro, Chinese, Eskimo, and Australian.

ELECTROTYPES OF BRITISH HISTORICAL MEDALS.

A fine collection of reproductions of medals illustrating British history, has just been presented to the museum by the Trustees of the British Museum, London. The medals are contained in three frames, and are to be exhibited in the Central Room, which adjoins the Art Gallery.

The Collection comprises 98 pieces, consisting of 27 in gold, 4 in silver gilt, 50 in silver, 3 in copper gilt, 13 in copper, and 1 in enamelled steel. The historical period covered extends from the reign of Henry VIII. to that of George III. (1509 to 1820). Amongst the many portraits of sovereigns we may single out as fine works of art, those of Henry VIII., after Holbein, of Charles II., of Cromwell, and of Mary Queen of Scots. Some of the great battles commemorated are La Hogue, Blenheim, Culloden, Plassy, Quebec, the Nile, and Trafalgar.

The medal possessing the strongest local interest is that recording the battle of Camperdown. This medal is of copper and bears on the reverse a representation of Jack Crawford nailing the flag to the mast, and on the obverse a bust of Admiral Duncan, who commanded during the action.

The finest of the series, from the point of view of workmanship, is the famous Waterloo medal. It is the masterpiece of Pistrucci, the famous medal and coin engraver, and measures 5·3 inches in diameter, being the largest in the series. This medal was never issued, as it was feared that the dies, being so large, would crack or break during the hardening process which was necessary before striking off impressions in metal. It has, however, been reproduced by the electro process, of which the above-mentioned specimen is an example.

ART GALLERY CATALOGUE.

A new and revised edition of the catalogue of the permanent collection of pictures has been prepared, and is now on sale in the Art Gallery. It contains twelve illustrations including the following additional ones: "Weeds by the River," by Clayton Adams; "Duty Paid," by Ralph Hedley; and the statue, "Athlete and Python," by Lord Leighton.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS OF POMPEII.

There is now on exhibition in the Art Gallery an interesting and valuable collection of Water-Colour paintings of Pompeii, by Signor Luigi Bazzani.

The pictures which illustrate this historical city are 84 in number, and were purchased some years ago by the authorities of the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington. The Art Gallery Committee have been fortunate in securing the loan of this important collection for a short period.

The buried city of Pompeii is situated about 15 miles south-east of Naples, on the sea-shore not far from Mount Vesuvius. In the first century of the Christian era it was a favourite summer resort of Roman citizens. It appears to have suffered at various times from earthquakes, the most violent of which happened in the year 63 A.D., and resulted in the destruction of the greater part of the city. The terrified inhabitants abandoned the place for a short time, and then returned and set about re-building it. They were again interrupted in the following year by another earthquake, which also caused great damage. The work of reparation, however, was still carried on until the overwhelming disaster occasioned by the eruption of Vesuvius on the 24th August, 79 A.D. At this time it is computed that there were about 30,000 people in the city, the great majority of whom succeeded in making their escape. The skeletons found during the excavations are in many cases those of men and women who delayed their flight or returned in the hope of saving some of their treasured possessions. No current of lava appears to have reached the city, but showers of pumice and ashes descended upon it, covering it to a depth of from 20 to 24 feet.

The description of this catastrophe is to be found in the two letters written to Tacitus by the younger Pliny, who was an eye-witness of the event.

In this quiet provincial town no civic buildings on a magnificent scale existed, but its modest temples and public offices are full of instruction, while the many handsome private dwellings have afforded a rich store of knowledge, elsewhere unattainable, concerning Roman decorative art and home life.

The site of the city remained undiscovered until the year 1748, when the work of excavating was commenced: this work went on intermittently until 1860, from which time it has been prosecuted with regularity, the Italian Government devoting an annual sum for that purpose. The more important part has been already explored, and many of the works of art discovered there are now exhibited in the National Museum, Naples.

The better-class houses in Pompeii appear to have been divided into two parts, one for the reception of guests, the other for private and domestic use. Within the entrance was the vestibule communicating with the atrium or reception hall: the roof of this apartment was open to the sky in the centre, and immediately below this opening was a shallow basin sunk in the floor, styled the impluvium. To the right and left at the end of the hall were two recesses called alae, and beyond was the tablinum, a richly decorated apartment in which were preserved the family records: by its side was a passage leading to the private apartments. Here was the peristyle, a spacious court open to the sky and surrounded by a covered colonnade: in the centre was a garden adorned with statuary, and at the farther end a mosaic fountain.

Under the colonnade were entrances to various rooms, one of the most important being the dining-room, or triclinium, so called from the couches on which guests reclined at meals. Examples of silver table-vessels used at about this period are to be seen in reproduction in one of the square glass cases in our Museum. A descriptive article ("Hildesheim Treasure-Trove") appeared in the summer issue of the Library Circular last year. Near the dining-room was the oecus, a kind of sitting-room richly decorated and occasionally used for feasts. In one corner of the peristyle generally stood the shrine of the household gods, called the aedicula, also called the lararium, and along one side were frequently arranged the sleeping apartments, or cubicula. The kitchen was placed in a remote corner of the house, near the outer wall.

The floors of the better-class houses were often inlaid with marble mosaic, and the walls decorated with fresco paintings and representations of golden candelabra, etc., on bright-coloured grounds. The architectural details were frequently picked out with the most gorgeous tints, and the brilliant appearance of the more important apartments was enhanced by festoons of flowers strung between the columns. A reference to the wall-paintings shown in the collection will give an excellent idea of the rich and magnificent colouring, and the unique style of decoration and ornament, practised in this Roman city eighteen hundred years ago.

This collection of paintings, which will be on exhibition until June, will well repay a visit from any who are interested in this buried city; while the decorative artist alike with the antiquarian may find in it a store of information and suggestion.

Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Notes.

"If people read, they will soon find out how to better the conditions under which they live."—ANDREW CARNEGIE, LL.D.

HENDON BRANCH LIBRARY.

As promised in our last issue, we are now able to state that the Hendon Branch will be opened on the afternoon of Monday, the 19th of October, 1908. The ceremony will be performed by Mr. Samuel Storey, D.L., J.P., who 31 years ago, during his second term of Mayoralty, laid the foundation stone of the Central Library, Museum, and Art Gallery. On the day of opening, readers on presenting their Library-Tickets at the Branch, between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m., will be permitted to inspect the books under the new "open access" conditions which are to prevail. Books will not be issued, however, until the following day. There is a commencing stock of over 7,000 volumes, and we may here inform readers that their tickets will be available at any of the Libraries.

A photograph of the Hendon Library forms the frontispiece of this issue. The second Branch is in course of erection, and the third is to be commenced in the Autumn.

JUVENILE LIBRARY.

With the opening of the Branches, it is intended to limit the juvenile readers—except under special circumstances—to a separate section of each Library, containing specially selected works of a wide and general character. The commencing age, as before, will be 10 years, and at the age of 14 years, such readers may be transferred to the adult section.

Juvenile readers will be restricted to one book per week, except, under special circumstances. This will not prevent the return of books within the week.

RENEWALS AND BESPOKEN BOOKS.

The rule which has hitherto allowed of the renewal of the issue of all books issued for home reading, has recently been modified, and in future will be confined to non-fictional works only. In applying for renewal by messenger, through the post, or otherwise, the usual particulars must be given—in accordance with the form provided at the Libraries—which are as follows :—

SUNDERLAND PUBLIC LIBRARIES.

LENDING DEPARTMENTS.

RENEWAL FORM.

Library from which book is on loan.....
Date of issue.....
Book number, with prefix letter.....
Reader's name.....
Date of application for renewal.....

N.B.—The time allowed for reading may be renewed in the case of non-fictional books only, provided that the book has not been bespoken by another borrower. In renewing, the date of issue, as well as the number of the book, must in every case be given, otherwise the usual fine will be incurred.

Readers are reminded that non-fictional works in circulation may be bespoken on payment of one halfpenny towards expense of notification.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURES.

The University Extension Lectures, commencing at the end of September, will this Season deal with “Landmarks of Modern History,” and will be delivered by Mr. H. Travis Mills, M.A. A special list has been prepared of the works in the Public Library, which are recommended in the syllabus for consultation. The list comprises about 60 works, and copies may be had free on application at the Library.

THE "JUDGMENT" PICTURES,

BY JOHN MARTIN, R.A.

The three famous "Judgment" Pictures, by John Martin, are at present on exhibition in the Art Gallery.

These well-known works have, in response to a special request, been kindly lent to Sunderland by Mr. Carew Martin, Secretary of the Royal Society of British Artists, London, who is a grandson of the painter of the pictures.

The works are entitled:—"The Last Judgment," "The Great Day of His Wrath," and "The Plains of Heaven." The scene of the last work is said by some to be laid on the Tyne, while others claim the Lake district as the locality.

The pictures were placed on exhibition here in the middle of July, for a period of three months, but so popular have they proved, that Mr. Martin has agreed to allow them to remain on view until the end of October. They were exhibited privately in the Athenæum, Sunderland, about 45 years ago, and a second time 25 years ago, and though public opinion has been considerably modified since their production—over half a century ago—their popularity is still great.

During the 11 weeks they have been on view, 75,855 persons—many from a distance—have visited the Gallery, a daily average attendance of 1,149.

The fact that John Martin was born at Haydon Bridge in 1789 gives added interest to North Countrymen. When a youth he worked in Newcastle-upon-Tyne at heraldic coach-painting, and later at the decoration of china. He went to London in 1806, and diligently occupied his spare time in studying the higher branches of art. Six years after he produced his first picture, "Sadak in Search of the Waters of Oblivion," now in the possession of Lord Durham. In 1817 and 1821 his contributions obtained prizes at the British Institution, and his art became widely popular. He was instrumental in the foundation of the Society of British Artists, where his works appeared for some years. Leopold I. decorated Martin with the Order of Leopold, he and Lord Durham being the first English Knights of the Order to be enrolled in the Herald's College. Gustave Doré was known to have been a great admirer of Martin, and in early life almost made him a model. Martin did not confine himself to the oil medium; he painted many sketches in water-colours, and furnished illustrations for editions of the Bible and of "Paradise Lost." Many of his pictures were engraved by himself. The "Judgment" Pictures were painted during the years 1849 to 1853, and became known all over the English-speaking world through engravings and also exhibitions, where they have been visited by millions of people. He died in 1854 at Douglas, in the Isle of Man, where he had gone for the benefit of his health, immediately after the completion of the last of these three pictures.

The public are reminded that no charge is now made for admission to the Gallery.

PHOTOGRAPHIC EXHIBITION.

Arrangements are being made to hold an Exhibition in the Autumn of the work of the local Photographic Associations.

SOME IMPORTANT GIFTS OF RECENT YEARS.

In reviewing the last five years of the history of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery, it is pleasing to recall that all three departments have benefited considerably by substantial gifts during that period.

The sum of £10,000 has been given by Dr. Carnegie for Branch Libraries, followed later by the gift of three valuable sites for their erection, by the Chairman of the Committee

(Mr. Alderman Wm. Burns, J.P.), Mr. J. G. Addison, J.P., and Messrs. T. W. and A. Backhouse.

Two years ago the Museum was enriched by the gift of the splendid Natural History Collection of the late Mr. Edward Backhouse, comprising about 15,000 specimens contained in ten large and beautifully made rosewood and mahogany cases. Within a few months of this gift, the Earl of Durham presented an entomological collection of about 3,000 specimens, brought together by the first Earl of Durham while Governor-General of Canada.

Now we have to record the handsome donation of thirty-one pictures from the late Mr. John Dickinson, J.P., of engineering fame, who for many years was a member of the Committee of this Institution. It will be seen from the list of the pictures, that they constitute the most important collection of works of art that has so far been presented to the public of Sunderland.

THE DICKINSON BEQUEST OF PICTURES.

The following is a list of the pictures recently bequeathed to the Public of Sunderland by the late Mr. John Dickinson. About one-third of these were specially painted for the donor. The trustees will hand the works over to the Corporation at a later date.

NEED FOR EXTENSION OF THE LIBRARY, MUSEUM, AND ART GALLERY BUILDING.

The growth of the Institutions' good fortune in both large and small donations, together with the increasing popularity of the various departments, once more brings up the question of extension.

Despite the size of our building, each department has suffered from congestion for some years. A great part of the Backhouse collection, as well as the general collection of the Museum, cannot be properly exhibited, and when the trustees of the Dickinson bequest transfer the works to the Committee, the problem of exhibiting these and the existing collection of pictures in the Art Gallery, after allowing for weeding out, will be a difficult one to solve.

The Library has long been overcrowded, and the Reading Rooms located in temporary premises ; while the accommodation for Reference work is far from that desirable and necessary for the best results in a town of Sunderland's size and importance.

Notwithstanding the partial relief to be expected through the opening of the Branches, the increased demands on the Library during late years, assisted to some extent by the recent and rapid developments of higher and technical education in the town, have exceeded all calculations, and become such that any attempt to extend the Reference department in the present Central Library would be far from adequate for the town's requirements.

It is recognised by those closely in touch with the work of the Institution that the matter of Central extension must be faced in the immediate future if we are to be up-to-date with requirements, notwithstanding the fact that Library development must be secured on the id. rate, which is limited by Act of Parliament.

It may be that a scheme for the extension of the various departments will be forthcoming on the completion of the Branch Libraries.

" I am in favour of Public Libraries everywhere. The cost is small and the benefits great.—REV. C. H. SPURGEON.

EXHIBITION OF PICTORIAL PHOTOGRAPHS.

The Exhibition of the three famous "Judgment" Pictures, painted by John Martin, closed on the 31st October, 1908, after being on view sixteen weeks, during which period, 93,154 persons visited the Gallery, an average of 970 per day. The works have been transferred to London, where an effort is being made to secure them for Northumberland, the county of the artist's birth.

They have been succeeded by an Exhibition of Pictorial Photographs. The pictures, which number nearly 200, are contributed by the two Sunderland Photographic Societies and a few unattached workers. They have been carefully selected by a special committee from a large number of prints submitted, and they give the picture-loving people of Sunderland an idea of the position which the town holds in the realms of photography. It is claimed by Sunderland photographers that there are few towns in the provinces capable of putting together such a collection of camera work, prepared as a means of pictorial expression.

Several of the workers represented have obtained the highest honours possible in their art, namely, the acceptance of their pictures at the Autumn shows of the Royal Photographic Society, which is to the photographer what the Royal Academy is to the painter. Prominent photographers and Royal Academicians serve on the selecting committee for these Exhibitions. As further evidence of the high standing of local photography, it may be mentioned that last year Sunderland had the honour of securing two of the three possible awards given for pictures submitted by members of Photographic Societies throughout Great Britain and Ireland. At the same time, six of the Sunderland prints were selected for two years' circulation among the various clubs of the country.

The Art Gallery is open at present from 10 a.m. to dusk, and the collection will remain on view until the end of December. Admission is free.

A Catalogue of the Photographs is on sale in the Gallery, price one penny.

MUSIC.

A list of the musical works in the Central and Hendon Libraries has just been compiled and printed, copies of it are now available.

The list is in 17 pages, and contains the titles of about 600 volumes arranged in classified order. The scope of the collection may be briefly indicated by mentioning a few of the subjects represented. Beginning with the more general works, we have books bearing upon the literature and æsthetics of music; followed by dictionaries, essays, and musical history (including the lives of musicians, composers, and singers). Grouped under the next main subject-heading—theory—are found elementary text books; works on the mathematical and physical aspect of music ; harmony ; thorough-bass ; counterpoint ; musical form ; composition ; and instrumentation. Dramatic music (including operas, operettas, cantatas, and masques) is represented by the scores of well-known British, German, French, and Italian composers. In sacred music, is a selection of oratorios ; passion music ; masses, and anthems ; including the art of choir-training, by various writers. Vocal music follows, under which head is enumerated minstrelsies and songs of various nations ; together with works on vocal hygiene, and tonic sol-fa. Following books on the orchestra are set out, studies, tutors, and music for the pianoforte and the organ ; and, in conclusion, a number of volumes treating on the history, making, and teaching of the violin and violoncello.

Copies of this : List of Music and Musical Literature in the Central and Hendon Libraries, may be had at either of the Libraries, price one penny.

BRANCH LIBRARIES.

It is pleasing to record that the Hendon Branch Library, which was opened on the 19th October by Samuel Storey, Esq., D.L., J.P., is being appreciated by the residents of the district in a manner exceeding the most sanguine expectations. During the seven weeks that it has been available, 1,200 tickets have been applied for. As tickets used at the Central Library are available at the Branch, and vice versâ, it will be seen that the 1,200 applications are from new readers.

The issues already average 260 per day, 49 per cent. of which is of a non-fictional character. The opportunity to examine the books on the shelves in classified order, meets with much approval. There is a good demand for the large selection of technical literature.

It is interesting to note that two of the largest towns in Lancashire are at present considering the advisability of introducing the system of "open access" in Branch Libraries about to be erected.

The foundation stone of the West Branch Library in Kayll Road was laid on the 5th November by Mr. Alderman Wm. Burns, J.P., Chairman of the Libraries, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee, and donor of the site. The site is situated a mile-and-a-quarter from the Central Building, and it is expected that the demand upon this Branch, which is also to be arranged upon the "open access" system, will exceed even that at Hendon. The commencing stock will be about the same, numerically, as at Hendon—over 7,000 volumes—and efforts are being made to have the works selected, purchased, catalogued, classified, and the many unseen items peculiar to Public Library organisation, completed by the early part of next summer.

It is probable that the foundation stone of the third Branch—Monkwearmouth—will be laid early in 1909. The site is at present being cleared.

BRANCH LIBRARIES.

The foundation stone of the Monkwearmouth Branch Library, situated in Church Street, Roker Avenue, was laid on the 28th January.

The ceremony was performed by Mr. John George Addison, J.P., who some years ago was Vice-Chairman of the Library, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee.

Mr. Addison's interest in the Library movement is well known, and it is to his munificence that the town is indebted for the site upon which the building is being erected.

This Library, which it is expected will be erected by the Autumn, will complete the scheme for three Branches built from Dr. Carnegie's gift.

Satisfactory progress is being made in the building of the West Branch, and as has been announced, an endeavour is being made to open it in the summer of this year.

MEETING OF ASSISTANT LIBRARIANS.

A meeting of the North-Eastern Branch of the Assistant Librarians' Association, attended by about 40 members, was held in Sunderland, on Wednesday, the 16th of December, 1908. The Association was welcomed by Mr. J. A. Charlton Deas, Librarian and Director. Following an inspection of the Central Library, Museum, and Art Gallery, the delegates paid a visit to the Hendon Branch Library, where many of the members had the opportunity for the first time of examining a library worked on the open-access system. Tea having been provided at the invitation of the Sunderland Libraries Staff, a business meeting, which was presided over by Mr. D. W. Herdman (Deputy-Librarian), who is Chairman of the Branch, was afterwards held, when the following papers were read and discussed:—

“Stray Thoughts of a Librarian”; by Miss M. A. Forman, Victoria Branch Library, Newcastle.

“The Museum as an Adjunct to the Public Library”; by Mr. R. N. A. Miller, Central Public Library, Newcastle.

ADDITIONS TO THE MUSEUM.

For the special benefit of ambulance and medical students, as well as for purposes of general instruction, an articulated human skeleton has been purchased, and is now placed in one of the wall-cases of the Museum gallery.

The greater part of the series of fishes, amphibians, models and diagrams, which were purchased by the aid of a grant from the Board of Education, have now been placed on exhibition in the Museum gallery. The fishes, &c., have been preserved in special rectangular glass jars, which visitors will notice are better adapted for the purpose than the old-fashioned bottles.

BOTANY.

An excellent series of pressed specimens of typical mosses from the county of Durham has been presented by Rev. A. J. Campbell, F.L.S., a member of the Committee. The donor, who is an authority on bryology, has collected these lowly examples of plant-life chiefly from upper Teesdale, and specially described them for our botanical department. They are mounted and arranged in a wall-case in the Museum gallery, above models of edible and poisonous mushrooms, and next a case containing fine examples of skeleton flowers and leaves.

"CULLINAN" DIAMOND.

A copy of the "Cullinan" or "Wells" diamond in its original state, has been obtained, in order to supplement the popular collection of models of historical diamonds, which are exhibited in the Museum gallery at the top of the spiral staircase.

The "Cullinan" is the largest of all known diamonds, and weighed in the rough state $3,024\frac{3}{4}$ carats, that is, over $1\frac{1}{2}$ pounds avoirdupois. It was found by Mr. F. Wells, overseer in one of the Premier Diamond Company's Mines, near Pretoria, in 1905. It will be remembered that the Transvaal Government purchased the diamond for £150,000, and presented it to His Majesty the King on his birthday, 9th November, 1907. During 1908, the stone was cut up and polished, and now forms two exceptionally fine, large brilliants, which are deposited with the Regalia of the Crown, at the Tower, London. There are also over 100 smaller brilliants, some of which were selected to form a necklace for Her Majesty the Queen.

The process of cutting and polishing has greatly increased the value, and since the gems are as remarkable for their purity of "the first water," as the original stone was for its size, they cannot be estimated in terms of pounds sterling.

It is hoped to add reproductions of the two large gems, as soon as they are produced.

MINERAL COLLECTION.

The collection of minerals is now being installed in the wall-cases at the east end of the Museum gallery. The specimens include silver, copper, tin, zinc, and iron ores, and examples of rock-forming minerals and veinstones from many of the mines, quarries, and cliffs of Great Britain, the Colonies, and Europe. Local specimens come from Weardale, Fulwell, Marsden, and from various coal-mines in the county. In the cases where the metallic minerals are exhibited, diagrams illustrating the extraction of iron, zinc, lead, and other elements from their ores have been added.

BIRDS OF PARADISE.

The work of cleaning, identifying, and describing our extensive series of British and foreign birds is now nearing completion, and the illustration of some of our finest examples, the magnificent Birds of Paradise, will serve to remind readers that the town possesses one of the best collections of these remarkable natives of New Guinea in any municipal museum.

These dozen specimens are, however, only part of the collection : there is another case of birds of the same family, which, though not all exhibiting such varied colours, still show the same characteristic long plumes, and remarkable wire-like filaments.

The plumes seen in birds Nos. 1 to 4 are unique in the bird world, since no other birds are known to have such plumes springing from under the wings. These graceful appendages are as remarkable for vividness of colour as for elegance of form ; they are golden-yellow in No. 1, and rich crimson or light-red in Nos. 2, 3, 4. When excited the birds erect the plumes in fountain fashion over the body. The curious ribbon-like and wiry filaments are really the lengthened shafts of the middle tail-feathers, which are twisted and curved into fantastic shapes, or even, as in No. 9, curled round at the tip into a tight spiral.

The metallic sheen of the plumage, displaying different colours, like "shot" silk, is well seen on the breast of No. 11, which is dark purple and fiery bronze-green, and also on the breast-plumes of No. 5, metallic purple and greenish-blue.

The Standard-wing, No. 8, was discovered by Alfred Russel Wallace, the great naturalist, who has given us the best description of Birds of Paradise in his book "The Malay Archipelago." (4629, Central Library).

ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPTS.

The exhibition in the Art Gallery of pictorial photographs by local workers, which was opened on the 16th November, 1908, closed on the 30th January, 1909, after being visited by 15,447 persons. A special catalogue was prepared, of which 467 copies were sold.

The photographs will be replaced in April by an exhibition of illuminated manuscripts, illustrating the early arts of inscribing and illuminating, which are to be loaned from the national collection at the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington. It is also hoped at this time to place on view the pictures of the Dickinson bequest.

Before these collections are placed on view the Gallery will be closed for a short time, when it is intended to introduce a new scheme of decoration and lighting, which will materially improve the present conditions.

WEST END BRANCH LIBRARY.

The building of the West Branch Library in Kayll Road is now nearing completion, and a photograph of the exterior of the building forms the frontispiece to this issue of the "Circular."

The general arrangements of the Library, will, with certain small improvements, be similar to those existing at the Hendon Branch, opened last October.

The preparation of the commencing stock of 7,000 volumes is being pushed forward for the opening.

In response to an invitation from the Committee, the Very Rev. G. W. Kitchin, D.D., F.S.A., Dean of Durham, and Warden of the University of Durham, has kindly consented to perform the Opening Ceremony, on Wednesday, the 30th day of June, 1909.

Satisfactory progress is being made with the building of the Monkwearmouth Branch.

GEORGE MEREDITH.

George Meredith, the last of the Victorian novelists, was born in 1828, and died May 18th, 1909. The following is a list of writings in the Libraries, either by or about this distinguished novelist and poet:—

RE-OPENING OF THE ART GALLERY.

The Art Gallery was re-opened to the public on April 7th, after being closed for improvements and alterations, which included re-decoration in accordance with a new colour-scheme, and improved systems of heating and electric lighting. Sun-blinds of a golden-brown colour have been fixed, which have the effect of adding a warm tone, as well as allowing perfect regulation of the light on dull days. Since the re-opening ^{to} on 22nd May 31,063 persons have visited the Gallery, an average of 796 per day.

THE JOHN DICKINSON BEQUEST OF PICTURES.

On the re-opening of the Gallery, the John Dickinson bequest of thirty-one oil paintings was placed on exhibition. The works are nearly all by well-known British artists of the Victorian period, including Sir Edwin Landseer, R. Ansdell, W. Duffield, J. B. Pyne, and Mark Anthony. Catalogues, with a supplement containing a list of the works, may be obtained in the Gallery.

EXHIBITION OF ILLUMINATED MANUSCRIPTS.

A collection of illuminated manuscripts on loan from the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, was placed on exhibition early in April. The manuscripts, which are contained in 61 frames, range in date from the 12th to the 16th century inclusive, and are representative both of writing and of illumination as practised during that period in France, the Netherlands, Germany, Italy, and Spain. With few exceptions, they once formed part either of Bibles, Service Books, or Books of Private Devotion.

The earliest specimens known of illuminated manuscripts are the ancient Egyptian "Rituals of the Dead," written with reed pen upon papyrus, and illustrated with painted miniatures and borders. These range in date from the 16th or 15th century B.C. downwards; and have been found in considerable numbers. The art of illumination, it is thought, was known to the Greeks. The use of parchment was certainly known to the Greeks in the time of Herodotus (circa 460 B.C.); and that of linen is also of great antiquity. The manuscripts in this collection are, without exception, written upon skin—the term “vellum” being applied to that of the calf (which is capable of being dressed with a very fine surface and to great thinness); and “parchment” to the skin of sheep, pigs, or other animals, of altogether coarser quality. Paper was occasionally used, even before the year 1400.

The 15th century saw the arts of the scribe and of the illuminator ruined by the general adoption of printing and the growing use of engraving for the purpose of book illustration. During the early part of the 16th century, some work was still done, which, if not of the highest quality, is often of an interesting and instructive character.

The collection deserves close attention and careful study, as affording models not only of good writing, but also of illumination and ornament. Of special interest are examples of musical notation during the period covered. A few photographs and coloured lithographs from our Library, are introduced to supply, in some measure, the deficiency of examples of English work.

The collection will remain on view until early in July.

FINE ART LOANS.

The loans in the Fine Art section have recently been replaced by four cases of art objects from the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington. The cases contain (1) reproductions of English Silver work, (2) jewellery, metal-work, and enamels, (3) Persian pottery, and (4) Wedgwood pottery. The English silver work comprises several sconces, vases and tankards, and a magnificent silver mounted ebony table from Knole Park, Kent, all of the 17th or 18th century. The jewellery case contains interesting specimens of Spanish, German, Italian, Swedish, English and Russian workmanship, dating from the 16th to the 19th century.

Near the cases of Sunderland pottery is placed the loan case of Wedgwood Ware. This is the celebrated make which, in the latter part of the 18th century, reached the highwater mark in the history of English pottery. Its classical contour, delicate turning, exquisite colouring and Flaxman figures, give Wedgwood ware a place quite by itself.

The case of Persian pottery contains examples of the various types of ware in vogue in the Iranian countries from the 13th to the 17th century.

Altogether there are about 130 fine art objects in the series, which will remain on exhibition until the Spring of next year.

All lovers of art should take the opportunity thus afforded them of examining these specimens of the jeweller's and potter's crafts, which have been specially selected as typical of their kind, from the carefully collected products of many countries during the past seven centuries of the world's history.

EXHIBITION OF ART-WORK FROM LEICESTER SCHOOLS.

A small circulating collection of elementary art-work, illustrating the scheme of art education in the Primary, Secondary, Continuation Schools, and Teachers' Training College of the Borough of Leicester, was placed on view on April 7th for about four weeks. During this period it was examined by large numbers of visitors, including 1,042 children from the schools of Sunderland, who were brought by their teachers for instruction.

MONKWEARMOUTH BRANCH LIBRARY.

A photograph of the Monkwearmouth Branch Library, Church Street North, Roker Avenue, forms the frontispiece of this issue of the "Library Circular." The building, which is the third presented to the town by Dr. Carnegie, and erected on a site presented by Mr. J. G. Addison, J.P., is nearing completion, and every effort is being made to have the stock and general arrangements ready for the opening ceremony, which Dr. Carnegie has kindly agreed to perform on Thursday, the 21st of October.

The Library will be opened with a stock of books equal in number to that of each of the other branches (over 7,000 volumes), and the arrangements and facilities are to be somewhat similar. The Committee feel confident that the success of this branch, placed in so populous a district, will be no less than that which has attended the other two "open-access" branches, opened since October last year.

The second branch, opened in July by the Very Rev. G. W. Kitchin, D.D. (Dean of Durham), is already meeting with much appreciation. There is now a daily average issue of 355 volumes, over 50% of which is of a solid character. The reading rooms are being well attended.

WORKS ON THE POLAR REGIONS.

The following is a list of works in the Central, Hendon Branch, and West Branch Libraries, dealing with the Polar Regions—a subject which is arousing considerable interest at present :—

Where a number is stated to the left of entry the Central Library is understood. W indicates West Branch. H indicates Hendon Branch.

MR. HARRY WATTS' MEDALS.

Mr. Harry Watts, the well-known diver, has recently presented to the Corporation of Sunderland the medals and testimonials which have been awarded to him for life-saving during his long and useful career. Mr. Watts, who was born in Sunderland 83 years ago, has saved 36 lives from drowning and has assisted in saving 119 lives by the rocket-line and lifeboat. The medals have been deposited in the Museum, and are being shown in the room adjoining the Art Gallery. They are eight in number, and include the Bronze Medal and Honorary Clasp of the Royal Humane Society, a bronze medal awarded by the Board of Trade, a gold medal awarded by the Naval Temperance Crusaders, and a silver medal bearing the inscription "Presented to Mr. Henry Watts, by the Sailors of the East End of Sunderland in appreciation of his many kind services to them, April, 1877." Only one of these medals is original: the other seven were stolen from a chapel bazaar, where they were being exhibited, in 1878. Exact duplicates were, however, obtained by public subscription, and presented to Mr. Watts, together with an illuminated address. The six certificates are to be exhibited on the walls of the Hendon Branch Library, in the district in which Mr. Watts resides.

A short account of Mr. Watts' career appears on page 41 of "The Sunderland Year Book, 1909."

PHOTOGRAPHS OF FAMOUS PICTURES.

The exhibition of illuminated manuscripts from the Victoria and Albert Museum was concluded early in July. During the four months they were on view, many of the beautiful examples were copied by local artists.

The collection has now been replaced by sixty large photographs of famous pictures, principally by modern British artists. They have been specially selected from Messrs.

Mansell & Co.'s photographic galleries, London, and should be of interest to picture-lovers and photographers alike, and more especially to art students for copying purposes. The prints are chiefly in the sepia platinotype and the carbon processes, but special attention may be called to the coloured work, in which the prints are pulled from the plate, which is first coloured by hand.

The following are some of the forty-seven artists represented :—Modern British School : Burne-Jones, Dicksee, Faed, Holman Hunt, Lord Leighton, Millais, Rossetti, Clarkson Stanfield, Watts, and Whistler. Old British School : Lawrence, Reynolds, Romney, and Turner. Modern French School : Rosa Bonheur, Burnand, Meissonier, and Millet. Modern Dutch School : Artz, Israels, Neuhoy.

The exhibition will be on view for about three months, and admission is, as usual, free. Owing to the recent introduction of an improved system of lighting, the Gallery is now open until 7 p.m., instead of dusk, as heretofore at this season.

LIST OF BOOKS

ADDED TO THE LIBRARIES

FROM JUNE TO AUGUST, 1909.

"Except a living man, there is nothing more wonderful than a book. 'Tis a messenger to us from the dead . . . from human souls whom we never saw, and yet these little sheets of paper speak to us . . . teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers."—CHARLES KINGSLEY.

POLITICAL LIST.

In order to place the resources of the Libraries on current political topics before readers, a special list comprising 530 volumes was issued, gratis, in December.

A few of these lists are still on hand, and copies may be had on application.

COVERS FOR BOOKS.

A specially-made stout paper book-cover of pleasing appearance has been placed on sale in the Central and Branch Libraries, and during the last few weeks several hundreds of them have been disposed of at the cost price of one half-penny.

THE STONE AGE : EOLITHIC FLINT IMPLEMENTS.

A small representative series of the remarkable flint implements known as Eoliths has been placed in the Model Room. Eoliths are now regarded as the first attempts of prehistoric man to make tools for himself. They consist of roughly chipped and shaped flint pebbles, found in the high-level gravels of the Kentish Downs and other parts of the South of England, and the Continent of Europe. It is only within recent years that these remains have been discovered : previously the stone implements called Palæoliths were considered to be the oldest.

By the addition of these recently-acquired Eoliths, together with the large series of stone implements in the Edward Backhouse Collection, the work of prehistoric man is well illustrated in our archæological cases, which now contain examples of all the chief types of British antiquities of this class.

The Eoliths may be taken as commencing the Stone Age ; in process of time, these developed into the Palæoliths or Old Stone Age implements, which, though still of rude workmanship, are all of characteristic forms, chiefly in flint. These again gave rise, by gradual stages, to the ground and polished implements of the Neolithic or New Stone Age, which continues to-day in some parts of Australia and New Guinea, and also, until quite recently, in many other regions of the world.

The Stone Age gave way to the Bronze Age, when metals were discovered, in Europe about 2000 B.C. This period is represented by some bronze axes from Ireland; and also by the two fine Cinerary Urns found on Humbledon Hill, which belong to the later part of the Bronze Age. These urns are shown in a wall-case near the window at the south end of the Centre Room. The Iron Age in Britain probably commenced about 500 B.C. It was shortly after this date that the potter's wheel was first used in Britain.

COUNCIL SCHOOLS' ART WORK EXHIBITION.

This Exhibition was opened on the 18th of December, 1909, and consists of drawings and paintings done by the Scholars of the following Sunderland Council Schools :—

Barnes Boys and Girls ; Bishopwearmouth Boys ; Chester Road Boys, Girls, and Infants ; Commercial Road Juniors and Infants ; Deptford Terrace Juniors and Infants ; Gray Boys ; Green Terrace Mixed and Infants ; Hendon Boys, Girls, Juniors, and Infants ; Hudson Road Boys ; Hylton Road Girls ; James Williams Street Juniors ; Moor Boys ; Redby Boys, Girls, and Infants ; St. Andrew's Boys and Girls ; St. Paul's Boys and Infants ; Simpson Street Girls ; Stansfield Street Girls ; Thomas Street Boys, Girls, and Juniors ; Valley Road Boys, Girls, and Juniors.

The work is shown on the Screens in the Art Gallery in the order of departments ; Infants, Juniors, Girls, and Boys.

During the period of the Exhibition the Gallery has been visited by 12,647 persons, including a number of school children conducted by their Teachers. This is a daily average of 436 persons, which is considered satisfactory at this season.

The Exhibition will close on Tuesday, 1st February.

Arrangements are being made to exhibit the Collection of Water-colour paintings by J. M. W. Turner, which are being specially loaned from the National Gallery, early in March.

RECENT ADDITIONS TO THE MUSEUM.

Prehistoric Canoe found in the Wear.

Our frontispiece gives a view of one of the most important additions ever made to the antiquities department of the Museum. This ancient dug-out canoe was found in the bed of the river Wear at Hylton, near Sunderland, about 25 years ago, and was recently presented to the Corporation by the River Wear Commissioners. As will be seen, it was hewn out of an oak-tree trunk; it is upwards of 2,000 years old, and may even date back to the Stone Age. It may, indeed, be claimed to be Sunderland's earliest boat, and the forerunner of the many noble vessels which have for centuries been launched on the Wear, and have made Sunderland's reputation as the largest shipbuilding town in the world.

The details of its discovery are as follows :—It was first seen by Mr. Harry Watts, the well-known Sunderland diver and life-saver, when employed by the Commissioners to remove the "Brixons," large stones forming the remains of a bridge which spanned the river at Hylton. The canoe lay at the river bottom, covered with alluvial mud and shingle, and contained human bones, which, unfortunately, were not secured. Its size is about eleven feet long by two feet broad by one and a half feet deep. Stone implements shaped like chisels were also found in the bed of the stream near the same spot, together with deer horns, relics of the times when ancient Britons, clad in skins, and armed with stone axes, hunted the red deer in the primeval forests of the County of Durham. Proof of the existence of such forests in times of yore is not wanting in the shape of huge trees found water-logged in the bed of the stream; these trees are bigger than any known to-day, and it was doubtless from the trunk of a similar giant of the forest that the canoe itself was made, probably carved out by stone axes, assisted by fire.

The canoe is on exhibition in the Museum Gallery, close to the entrance door.

Weather-Vane of Old Sunderland Lighthouse.

In addition to the ancient canoe, the River Wear Commissioners have presented the weather-vane of the old Sunderland Lighthouse, which was taken down in 1841. This is a spirited design, in pewter or lead coppered over, of Neptune in his chariot, drawn by sea-horses and attended by Nereids; it is now exhibited on the wall of the Centre Room, above the case containing models of the old lighthouse, which was for so long the prominent feature on entering Sunderland Harbour.

Tibetan Prayer-wheel.

A Prayer-wheel and "Thunderbolt" from Tibet have been presented by Mr. Joseph Taylor. The Prayer-wheel consists of a small hollow brass and copper cylinder which is revolved by hand like a child's rattle. On the side of the cylinder are Tibetan characters in repoussé work, forming the famous "Jewel Prayer" of the Buddhists. The Prayer-wheel is supposed to be efficacious in lessening the number of re-births in which the Buddhists believe.

The "Thunderbolt" is a bronze three-edged dagger, with emblems symbolic of demons, and the flying horse of good fortune. It is used by the Lamas or Tibetan priests, who are supposed to drive off demons with it.

Polished Granite Specimens.

A number of fine granite and sandstone slabs and cubes have been presented by Mr. J. Hall. Among these are some polished examples of Aberdeen granite, one of which, the red Correnie variety, is the stone used for building the Roker Pier and Lighthouse and the offices of the River Wear Commissioners.

The sandstones include a sample of that used in building the Central Library and Museum, and came from Prudham, Northumberland.

Bewick's Swan.

A fine specimen of this Swan has been placed on exhibition in a case near the spiral staircase, in the Museum Gallery. The bird is a male in full plumage, and was shot at Whitburn in November, 1909.

This species of Swan has a local interest, being named in honour of Thomas Bewick, the famous wood-engraver, the author of the well-known work, "British Birds." Bewick's Swan is the rarest and also the smallest of the three British Swans, the others being the Whooper or Whistling Swan, and the Mute Swan, which is so well known in a semi-domesticated state in our parks. The Museum now possesses examples of all these Swans.

Art Objects on Loan from the Victoria and Albert Museum.

The annual change of loans from the Victoria and Albert Museum has recently been made. The new objects are shown in the Centre Room in four cases which contain, respectively, Ironwork, Silversmiths' Work, Lace-Work, and Embroidery.

The wrought ironwork includes brackets, panels, part of a gate, lock-plate, boxes, grilles, taper-holders, and stands, made by English, German, Flemish, and Italian craftsmen during the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries.

The silversmiths' work comprises reproductions of gold and silver ornaments and vessels, forming an attractive exhibit illustrating the high art of the German and Dutch countries during the 16th and 17th centuries.

The embroidery cases contain some interesting pieces of brocades made of brightly coloured silk damasks, including some waistcoats with silver-threads woven in. These are of English (Spitalfields) and French workmanship. The Spitalfields works were originated by French settlers at the end of the 17th century. In another case are some richly decorated embroidery and fine examples of lace. The embroidery is 17th century work from the Dutch East Indies, Persia, and Turkey. There are exquisitely delicate pieces of lace of the variety known as needle-point à réseau, and also pillow-lace of English, Flemish, Italian, and French workmanship dating from the 17th to the 19th centuries.

TURNER WATER-COLOUR DRAWINGS.

A selection of 53 Water-colour drawings lent by the Trustees of the National Gallery was placed on our exhibition screens about two months ago, and has attracted considerable attention from art lovers and students. The works comprise 34 drawings in colours, 11 pencil sketches, two chalk drawings, one pen and ink, one black and white, one sepia and three tints (early method).

The excellence of Turner's drawing is especially seen in a pencil sketch of Durham Cathedral, which is wonderful in its exactness. Some fine coloured sketches of Venice are also included in the Collection.

A special list of books on Turner and his works, in the Libraries, has been prepared, and is exhibited with the pictures on the screens.

"No blessing can be given to a family greater than a love of books. The influence of such will guard it from many temptations and from many evils."—JOHN BRIGHT.

BOOK LISTS.

A classified list of the works in the Libraries dealing with Building Trades and Architecture, has just been compiled and published. The Committee have circulated copies among the skilled workmen in the various building establishments, building students at the Technical College, and assistants engaged in the various architects' offices in the town. There are 700 volumes represented in the list. Copies may be had on application, gratis.

There has also been issued a list of over 100 works in the Libraries dealing with the History and Description of Japan. The list should be of use to those interested in the present exhibition in the Art Gallery, and likewise to those intending to follow the course of University Extension Lectures on Japan, to be commenced at an early date.

BRANCH LIBRARIES.

The report of the first year's working of our second Branch Library (West End) was presented at the August meeting of the Libraries' Committee. The issues for the year ending July 11th, totalled 106,323 volumes, a daily average of 351. Fiction formed 52% of the issue, a slightly higher percentage than that of the Central Library.

It is pleasing to find that the second Branch, like the first, has proved successful in its first year of existence. The issues exceed those of Branch Libraries in most of the larger towns in the North of England. There is no doubt that the appreciation of the "open access" system is to a large extent responsible for the extraordinary success which is attending the work of the three branches.

At the same meeting of the Committee it was reported that Dr. Carnegie had kindly agreed to present the sum of £143 14s. 2d. required to meet the excess expenditure on the £10,000 presented by him for two branches, but which had been used to build the three.

PORTRAIT OF DR. CARNEGIE.

The Committee have just secured three large portraits of Dr. Carnegie, which are to be placed in the Branch Libraries erected by him.

The portrait, which is life size, is executed in monochrome, and is an excellent specimen of photographic portraiture. One of the copies is at present on exhibition in the Art Gallery.

MODELS OF DEEP-SEA FISHES.

A set of seven models of deep-sea fishes has recently been acquired for the natural history section, and is now on exhibition in the Museum Gallery. The extraordinary shapes of the models will probably first attract the visitor's attention. One has a mouth exceeding in gape the length of the body, a somewhat similar fish has a very long whip-lash tail, and another has a remarkable bag-like stomach, in which it can, on occasion, accommodate a fish considerably larger than itself.

The fauna of the deep-sea, previous to the last century, was quite unknown. Since the sending forth of various expeditions to study currents and make observations bearing on navigation, such as the voyage of the "Beagle," the "Porcupine," and the famous voyage of the "Challenger," a flood of light has been shed on the state of life in the great ocean depths. In passing, it may be remarked that the "Porcupine Dredging Expedition" is of local interest, since it was from Sunderland that Captain Calver, R.N., took this vessel in 1869 for a two years' voyage, sounding depths in the North Sea and other parts near the British Islands, and securing specimens from the sea-floor, of which many examples are deposited in our collections. Among the strange specimens secured during these expeditions, none are more remarkable than the deep-sea fishes. Some deep-sea fishes live entirely at the greater depths, sometimes over 2,000 fathoms. It is only by accident that these are found at the surface, apart from being dredged up, and in all cases they are in a damaged state, owing to the expansion of the gases in the tissues of the body, when relieved from the great pressure to which they are subjected at the bottom of the sea. For this reason, few of the actual specimens are fit for show purposes, and it is therefore necessary to exhibit models of them. These denizens of the deep have to live in a sort of perpetual twilight, since only a faint light can penetrate to the bottom of the ocean, and their sight is accordingly modified to suit this condition of existence. Some are blind or nearly so, and rely for the capture of their food upon feelers or other sense-organs; some again are uniformly phosphorescent or have special luminous spots on the head or along the body (see Gastrostomus bairdi).

Deep-sea fishes are generally of a pale green or blue colour when caught, but they soon turn black; it is for this reason that the coloration of many of the models shown is blackish. Some deep-sea fishes are colourless and gelatinous in appearance; a model of one of these, named Aphyonus, is among the additions.

Most of the deep-sea fishes are known by a few specimens only, and, being rare, they have no popular names. For instance, Aphyonus, which is shown as a cast in paraffin wax, is quite unique, only one example being known; only four specimens of Ipnots murrayi have been found.

The models represent the following species:—Ipnots murrayi, Aphyonus gelatinosus, Chiasmodon niger, Sacropharyx flagellum, Gastrostomus bairdi, Malacosteus indicus, and Lepidopus tenuis.

An interesting account of deep-sea fishes is to be found in F. T. Bullen's "Creatures of the Sea," A4186.

JAPANESE EDUCATIONAL EXHIBITION.

An exhibition of drawings, photographs, books, stationery, manual work, etc., from the schools and colleges of Japan was opened in the Art Gallery on the 11th of August.

On the evening before the public opening, the head teachers of the town were invited to a private view, when an address on Japanese Education was delivered by the Librarian and Director. The meeting was presided over by G. O. Wight, Esq., J.P., who made some interesting remarks, and pointed out that a series of about a dozen lectures on Japan was to be commenced in the town in the course of a few weeks.

The collection, which is on loan from the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington, was first brought to this country to illustrate lectures delivered by Baron Kikuchi, in the University of London, and has since been exhibited in the Edinburgh Exhibition, and at Belfast and Manchester.

Among the many interesting drawings are some fine paintings of butterflies, which compare well with the actual specimens shown in the Museum cases. In one of the school books, a geographical reader, printed in Japan, there is a woodcut view of the Wear, near the Lambton Drops. Those who have followed the recent exhibitions of local and other school work, will be able to make interesting comparisons.

In connection with this exhibition, show-cases of Japanese objects in the permanent collection have been specially arranged in the room between the Art Gallery and the Museum Gallery, and in front of the second window on the ground floor of the Museum. A gift of several valuable objects from Japan, by Miss Ritson, has arrived most appropriately. This donation includes a fine red and black lacquer wine-cup, a model of a warrior, made by a Japanese school-boy, various objects illustrating home-life in the "Land of the Rising Sun," and a number of fine prints.

The collection has so far been on view eighteen days, during which time it has been visited by an average of 700 persons per day.

"The culture of the mind is as it were a kind of food to humanity."—CICERO.

SPECIAL BOOK LISTS ISSUED.

The following reading lists, which indicate the resources of the Libraries on the subjects named, have been compiled since the Summer issue of the "Circular":—

Works, by and about, Count Tolstoi.

Current Political Topics, revised.

Indoor Amusements (see p. 420 in this issue).

Numismatics.

Copies of these lists may be had on application at the Libraries.

Numerous lists are compiled and supplied to students and others interested in special subjects represented in the Libraries. Enquiries for such assistance are welcomed at all times.

Lists of books received every two months from the National Lending Library for the Blind, London, are announced regularly, by the kindness of the Editor, in the Sunderland Daily Echo.

SUNDERLAND'S BRANCH LIBRARIES : AN AMERICAN IMPRESSION.

The Indianapolis News of Oct. 4th, 1910, in an interesting report made by the City Librarian on a recent visit to the International Congress of Librarians, held in August at Brussels, and also the conference of British Librarians at Exeter in September, speaking of the British Libraries says :—

“In visiting in Great Britain this time I had a good look at their libraries. They have some beautiful new Carnegie buildings that are well worth visiting. While their library methods are in general very unlike ours, a number of them are organised much as the American library is—the borough libraries of Islington, Hampstead, and Liverpool are notable examples of good systems of main libraries with branches. Sunderland, a town of 150,000 inhabitants, has the best branches system, and is more like an American library than any I saw in Great Britain. It is very like the Cleveland library system, on a smaller scale, of course, and Cleveland is acknowledged to be the American model. The public has free access to the shelves, and all modern appliances are used for getting the best reading to the greatest number of people at the least cost. Sunderland's branches are the gift of Andrew Carnegie, and are very much like ours. Several methods of administration we have contemplated adopting in our branches I saw successfully employed there. The systems of heating and lighting which we have installed in Branch 2 in this city were in use there, and were most satisfactory.”

Indianapolis, which is the capital of Indiana, U.S.A., is a city of over 300,000 inhabitants, and possesses a central and nine branch libraries, several of which are being replaced by new buildings.

INSECTS AS FARMERS' FOES.

A series of a dozen cases illustrating the life-histories of some of the insects injurious to agriculture, has recently been added to our natural history department, and is now on exhibition in the Museum near the windows facing Borough Road. These specimens are proving of great usefulness and interest to farmers, gardeners, and foresters, as they show the actual insects side by side with the damage done by these pests to crops, garden and nursery-plants, and trees. There are labels attached indicating how they may be kept down and checked in their depredations.

The following is a list of the specimens, all of which are more or less well known in the North of England :—

Cabbage Moth ; injurious to garden and nursery-plants.

Turnip Moth ; injurious to crops and pastures.

Large White Butterfly ; injurious to garden and nursery-plants.

Mussel Scale ; injurious to garden and nursery-plants, fruit-trees and forest-trees.

Crane-fly ; injurious to crops and pastures.

Wire-worms ; injure pastures, grain, potatoes, and other crops.

Larch Saw-fly ; injures forest-trees.

Oak Marble Gall-flies ; injure oak-trees.

Pine-Weevil ; injures pines and fir-trees.

Felted Beech Coccus ; injures beech-trees.

Chafer Beetles ; injure crops, pastures, fruit-trees and forest-trees.

Woolly Aphis ; injures fruit-trees.

JAPANESE PHOTOGRAPHS.

The Japanese Educational Exhibition in the Art Gallery has been highly successful, and was visited by 37,099 persons. It was replaced on the 7th November by a series of large hand-coloured photographs of views in Japan, which include several charming studies of flower effects, the chrysanthemum, being the national emblem, figuring prominently, with the lotus, iris, wisteria, and cherry blossom. They were taken by Mr. Herbert G. Ponting, F.R.G.S., the famous photographer who has been selected to accompany Captain Scott's expedition to the South Polar regions.

Mr. Ernest Foxwell, M.A., who is at present delivering the course of University extension lectures on Japan, in the town, has just placed on exhibition in the Art Gallery, a very interesting Japanese picture book, which is about 100 years old.

The book contains 69 views by Hiroshige, of scenes in Japan, and is printed on one continuous length of paper 58 feet long, which folds up in the concertina fashion peculiar to most Eastern books. It is being shown in extended form, for a week or so, on the screens.

The photographs will remain on view until the middle of December, when they will probably be succeeded by an exhibition illustrating monuments and statuary, which is at present a subject of national interest.

THE LIFE OF HARRY WATTS.

In the Summer issue of last year's "Circular," we recorded that Mr. Harry Watts, the Sunderland Diver, had presented his eight medals and certificates received for life-saving, to our Museum. Shortly afterwards, Dr. Carnegie, when visiting the town, was shown the medals in their exhibition case in the Museum, and it was partly owing to this incident that he placed Mr. Watts, after an interview, on his Hero Pension Fund.

Dr. Carnegie, in speaking of Mr. Watts in a subsequent speech, said, "He is the bravest man I have ever met. You should never let the memory of this Sunderland man die."

It will be remembered that Mr. Watts, who is now in his eighty-fifth year, has saved thirty six lives on separate occasions, and assisted in saving over 120 others.

At a meeting of a number of local gentlemen, held in October last, under the presidency of the Mayor (Councillor A. F. Young), it was decided to record the many brave deeds and peculiarly interesting events in Mr. Watts's varied career afloat and ashore, by publishing his biography.

The work is being written by Mr. Alfred Spencer, author of "Dog Watch Yarns," "Tales of a Tar," etc., and will shortly be published by Messrs. Hills & Co., Fawcett Street, Sunderland.

There being no desire on the part of the promoters to secure a profit on the sale of the book, it is to be published at cost price, 3/6 net. As the edition is likely to be a limited one, orders should be placed with the publishers immediately.

PORTRAIT OF THE LATE MR. JOHN DICKINSON.

The frontispiece of this issue is taken from the life-size oil painting by Mr. Ralph Hedley, R.B.A., which forms one of the thirty-one pictures by prominent artists, generously bequeathed to the Sunderland Art Gallery by Mr. Dickinson, a well-known pioneer in local engineering, and for many years a member of the Libraries, Museum, and Art Gallery Committee.

The pictures were first placed on view in the Gallery in April last year, and have now taken their place as a permanent and attractive feature in the institution.

Particulars of the pictures were published, at the time of the bequest, in the 1908 Summer issue of this "Circular," and are also contained in the Art Gallery catalogue, which is on sale in the building.

THE LATE MR. J. M. E. BOWLEY.

Mr. J. M. E. Bowley, a former well-known official of this institution, passed away on the 9th November.

Mr. Bowley resigned his position in 1905 on account of ill-health, after serving over a quarter of a century in the Museum Department. He was first appointed to a position there under Mr. Robert Cameron, M.P., who was then Curator. After Mr. Cameron took up parliamentary duties, Mr. Bowley filled the office of Curator, and did much useful work in that capacity.

" Knowledge is of two kinds. We know a subject ourselves, or we know where we can find information upon it."—SAMUEL JOHNSON.

SPECIAL BOOK LISTS.

A list of some 350 volumes, arranged under the subject of each lecture has been prepared for persons interested in the University Extension course of twelve lectures on "Men and Letters in the Eighteenth Century," at present being delivered in the town by Mr. H. H. Williams, M.A.

Since the last issue of The Library Circular, a "Selected List of Books on Nature Study, including Aquaria, Microscopy, and Taxidermy," has been compiled and printed. It comprises 560 volumes, and has been prepared for teachers and others interested in Nature Study. A class in this subject has recently been formed by the Sunderland Teachers' Handwork Association, and is being conducted by Miss Norah March, B.Sc.

There has also been compiled a list of 100 volumes on Canada to meet a large demand for literature on that country, and also a list of 70 volumes on Sculpture in connection with the forthcoming exhibition in the Gallery, referred to in another paragraph.

Copies of these, and the following selection of some recently compiled lists, may be had, gratis, upon application at the Central or Branch Libraries :—

BOOK-ILLUSTRATIONS BY LOCAL ARTISTS.

An exhibition of the original paintings by Mr. Sep. E. Scott for the illustrations in Dickens' "Tale of two cities," and by Miss Sybil Tawse for Lamb's "Essays of Elia," was opened in the Art Gallery on Christmas Eve. The paintings are 24 in each set, those by Mr. Scott being executed in oils and those by Miss Tawse in water-colours.

Both artists are natives of Sunderland, and were trained at the School of Art in the town. The books mentioned have recently been published by Messrs. Chapman and Hall in their Burlington Library series.

The collection is on loan from the Spenser Press, the holders of the copyright. In response to local enquiries, the owners are willing to dispose of any of the works ; particulars may be had from the Director.

The exhibition closes on Saturday, February 4th, 1911.

SCULPTURE EXHIBITION.

Arrangements are under way for an exhibition, in the Art Gallery, of selected photographs of famous monuments and statuary, supplemented by several plaster busts and other actual examples of local sculpture.

There will be about 100 photographs representative of the main phases of ancient, mediæval, and modern sculpture, containing examples of the work of some of the most famous Greek, Roman, Italian, British, Danish, German, and French sculptors. The following is a list of some of the best known artists who are represented:—Phidias, Praxiteles, Donatello, Michelangelo, Cellini, Canova, Thorwaldsen, Houdon, Stevens, Gilbert, Boehm, Thornycroft, Watts, Bates, Leighton, Ford.

The majority of the photographs have been selected on loan from Messrs. Mansell & Co.'s Oxford Street Galleries, London, W.

Local work will be represented by busts, medallions, drawings, etc., by Mr. Christian Neuper, Mr. F. W. Doyle Jones, Mr. Alfred Borrowdale, and Mr. J. W. Reed.

The exhibition will be opened early in February.

MUSEUM AND ART GALLERY MISCELLANEA.

Turner Water-Colour Drawings.

The water-colour drawings, by J. M. W. Turner, on loan from the National Gallery, and which have been exhibited in the Art Gallery during the past year, will shortly be returned. They have been specially admired by art students, and the sketches of Durham Cathedral and other local views have created much interest.

Visitors and Exhibitions.

The visitors to the Art Gallery for the year ending December, 1910, numbered 134,271, an average of 435 per day. The loan exhibitions of the year have been the Japanese Educational Exhibition, from South Kensington, illustrating the entire scheme of education in Japan; hand-coloured photographs of Japanese landscapes, by H. G. Ponting; photographs of Famous Modern Pictures; Turner Water-Colours from the National Gallery, and the Book-Illustrations by Mr. Scott and Miss Tawse at present on view, and mentioned elsewhere.

Insects as Farmers' Foes.

Our frontispiece gives a view of four cases showing the life-histories of some of the injurious insects mentioned in our last issue. The entire series of twelve similar cases is on exhibition on the ground floor of the Museum, where they have already proved of considerable interest. They were specially arranged and supplied by Mr. A. H. Bastin, of Reading, an entomologist of proved skill and experience.

"The Life of Harry Watts": The Sunderland Hero.

We are able to announce the completion of the writing of this book, the inception of which was mentioned in our last issue. It is hoped to publish the work at or about the end of February.

The illustrations are being executed by Mr. Oswald Crompton, A.R.C.A., of the Sunderland School of Art. The greater portion of the edition of the work has already been subscribed for, Dr. Carnegie himself having ordered 100 copies.

Of Local Interest.

EVERY Sunderland inhabitant should not fail to see the new edition of two popular books which have locally been the success of the late Christmas Season. They are Charles Lamb's Essays of Elia, with 24 Illustrations in colour by MISS SYBIL TAWSE, and Dickens' Tale of Two Cities, with 24 Illustrations in colour by MR. SEP. E. SCOTT. Both of these artists were born in Sunderland, and educated at our School of Art. The price of each book is 3/6 net.

We have in preparation at the present time two more books of special local interest. The first is a volume of Sermons by the late Canon Cope, M.A., Vicar of St. Ignatius, with a biographical preface by H. E. Savage, Dean of Lichfield. The other book, The Life of Harry Watts, has been already mentioned in the Circular, so we need not say more at present about it, except that we will be pleased to receive orders for it or any of these books.
